DETAILED ACTION

In view of Applicant's arguments presented in the amendment after-final of 11/28/06, the finality of the last office action is hereby withdrawn. In light of the discovery of new prior art, the following is a new non-final action on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 7,10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 1,227,448 in view of Malia 3,086,830. EP '448 teaches (Fig. 2 embodiment) a safe 2 comprising an outer door 18' hinged together with an inner door 20', the inner door having a cutout portion to allow access to certain interior spaces 14,16 and further having a safe lock mechanism 19' for the outer door and a lock mechanism 21' for the inner door. EP '448 fails to teach the use of a single lock mechanism for both the inner and outer doors. Malia teaches a door assembly comprising inner and outer doors (12,14), Malia further teaches that the innermost door (34) have a cutout slots for allowing access therethrough (col. 3, lines 8-11). The inner and outer doors each comprise respective dedicated handle and latch/lock mechanisms (16/37; 17/36,38) which control unlocking of either or both of the doors. Malia further teaches the use of conventional handle/latch lock means (col. 3, lines 23-24) for the handles 16,17. It would have been obvious to modify the safe of EP '448 by providing a handle/latch/lock mechanism as taught by Malia to consolidate the locking means and reduce the number of parts in order to allow retrofitting of the locks.

- 3. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP '448 in view of Malia '830, as applied to claim 7 above, and further in view of Craven et al 5,143,430. Craven et al teach the concept of different employees accessing different parts of the safe, i.e. the refrigerated portion behind the inner door 22 to replace goods or the control panel portion behind the outer door 18. It would have been obvious to provide the safe lock of EP '448, as modified by Malia, with a hierarchical entrance lock system as contemplated by Craven et al and as well known in the lock art to provide selective access to various safe compartments as desired.
- 4. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP '448 in view of Malia '830, as applied to claim 7 above, and further in view of Fumanelli 5,787,819. Fumanelli further teaches the use of electronic door lock control means (5a) on a safe 3. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art given the teaching of Fumanelli, to substitute electronic lock means for the mechanical means of EP '448, as modified by Malia, as a means of enhancing the security of the safe.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7, 9-11 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
